

ABSTRACT

The present invention includes a method, system and apparatus for storing, distributing, and protecting content from unauthorized access. The media includes a writeable area, a read only area and the content stored on the writeable area. A first media validation data containing an encrypted preselected value is stored on the read only area.